2011 PLEXUS SGM

REVIEWS

Broad and open-textured, with pure blueberry and spice flavours. Not heavy, but the flavours persist into the deftly balanced finish. Shiraz, Grenache and Mourvedre.

Spice - and floral-accented aromas of candied red berries and bitter cherry. Bright and refreshing, with strong finishing cut, supple tannins and a late jolt of peppery spices. I really like this pinot-like focus and texture.

A blend of Shiraz, Grenache and Mourvedre, the medium to deep garnet colored 2011 Plexus offers up an alluring nose of kirsch, warm red currants and spiced black cherries with underlying nuances of rose petals, dried herbs, cinnamon and pepper. Medium to full-bodied with just enough expressive fruit in the mouth, it has a medium level of chewy tannins, bright acidity and a finish with good length.
